

TC Adopts Priority List

The Transportation Commission approved a list of projects at their July meeting to be funded if a .62 sales tax is approved by Colorado voters this November. The list includes regional and statewide projects strategically curated by state-wide planning partners over the last two years. Projects include 107 road and bridge projects across the state, statewide programs for fiber and technology, ADA compliance, bicycle and pedestrian projects, safety shoulders, rest area restoration, small freight projects, truck parking, wildlife mitigation and a pavement improvement program. Additionally there are 19 multimodal projects identified across the state that require a 50/50 match.

Click here to see a interactive project map. For more information about the priority project list contact Herman Stockinger, CDOT Director of the Office of Policy & Government Relations at Herman.Stockinger@state.co.us.

The Power of Partnerships

Don Butler, Executive Director, Connected Vehicle, and Services, Ford Motor Company will be the keynote speaker at the Colorado Transportation Summit on Friday, September 28th in Denver, Colorado. 2018 will be the 5th year that the Colorado Department of Transportation has brought together the transportation industry, local officials, business leaders and advocacy organizations from across the state for the largest transportation gathering in the state.

Don Butler with Ford Mobility

Transportation, done right can bring back life to our cities and state. Ford is accelerating mobility services by focusing on all layers of the transportation system - vehicles, infrastructure, connectivity and digital services - to alleviate the transportation drag on cities and help people move more freely. With goals of 100 percent connectivity of new vehicles in the United States by 2019, Ford is testing and accelerating mobility in Colorado to reach tomorrow's transportation future today.

The Transportation Summit will showcase the power of partnerships between industry, local officials, technologists, advocacy groups and others to increase awareness of the challenges we face; and more importantly drive solutions and innovations to address how we effectively move people, goods, and services. When we work WITH each other, WITH focus, WITH a vision, we can save lives and make people's lives better. Presenters include representatives from a wide variety of transportation related interests including, transit, freight, the Olympic Bid committee, farmers and many more. Governor Hickenlooper is also scheduled to address the Summit for the 5th year in a row.

Early bird registration discounted tickets are available until August 15th. For more information about the Colorado Transportation Summit visit our website at <https://www.codot.gov/summit>