

2021 SYMPOSIUM

30+ Years of Scenic Vistas & History, One Mile at a Time

21 WELCOME

SYMPOSIUM

One Mile at a Time for the Colorado Scenic Byways

Though the road
may lead to the highest peaks or to the oldest settlements or to petrified trees, though the road may lead us to dinosaur footprints or ancient cliff dwellings or great sand dunes,

with every route,
every turn, every curve
the road also leads us deeper into the truth of ourselves—

travelers in history,
stewards of beauty,
characters in a story
even now unfolding.

Past vast herds of elk,
old mining shacks, ghost towns,
through deep twisting canyons and peach orchards in bloom, these roads don't just take us from one place to another, they offer us the real joy ride—

joy in coming together on the way, joy in connecting with the land, joy in exploring our collective past,

joy in this journey in which every moment, every mile invites us to arrive.

Innovator, Digital Marketer, Technologist. Matt Kaskavitch is regarded as one of the original innovators in the field of digital marketing and social media. An alumnus of the University of Wisconsin, Matt created his own degree from scratch; a degree program that would become one of the first digital marketing degrees in the United States. He's been featured as a social media expert in media outlets like CNN, CCTV America, 9News, Denver 7, Fox 31 and the Denver Post. Having consulted with small businesses to large corporations, he has over ten years of digital marketing experience across multiple verticals.

Rosemerry Wahtola Trommer

... lives on the banks of the wild and undammed San Miguel River at the intersection of the San Juan Skyway and Unaweep Tabeguache Scenic Byways with her husband and two children. She served as San Miguel County's first poet laureate (2007-2011) and as Western Slope Poet Laureate (2015-2017) and as Colorado Poet Laureate finalist (2019). Her most recent collection, Hush, won the Halcyon Prize for a poetry on human ecology.

POET

Devoted to helping others explore their creative potential, Rosemerry is the co-host of Emerging Form, a podcast on creative process (with Christie Aschwanden), co-director of Telluride's Talking Gourds Poetry Club (with Art Goodtimes) and co-founder of Secret Agents of Change (with Sherry Richert Belul).

She believes in the power of practice and has been writing a poem a day since 2006. Her daily poems can be found at <https://ahundredfallingveils.com/>. Favorite themes in her poems include thriving/failure, parenting, gardening, the natural world, love, science and daily life.

She has 12 collections of poetry, and her work has appeared in O Magazine and on A Prairie Home Companion, on fences in back alleys and on hundreds of river rocks she leaves around town. In 2017, Naked for Tea, was a finalist for the Able Muse Poetry Award. Other books include Even Now, The Miracle Already Happening, The Less I Hold and If You Listen, a finalist for the Colorado Book Award.

Favorite activities: Trail running, Nordic skiing, recovering from trail running, camping, baking, knitting, reading, gardening. She's been an organic fruit grower, a newspaper and magazine editor, and a parent educator for Parents as Teachers.

She earned her MA in English Language & Linguistics at UW-Madison. One-word mantra: Adjust.

Mark Falzone, President, Scenic America

Mark Falzone was selected to serve as President of Scenic America in April 2017. Prior to Scenic America, he served as Deputy Director of the National Immigration Forum, and before that was a five-term elected member of the House of Representatives in Massachusetts. As a member of the National Conference of State Legislatures, he was twice elected to the Executive Committee. Mark holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Boston College and a Master of Public Administration degree from the Harvard University John F. Kennedy School of Government

As a young man, Falzone joined the local conservation club and worked for the betterment of his community. He believes strongly in Scenic America's broadened goals as envisioned in their white paper Taking the Long View: A Proposal for Realizing America the Beautiful. Falzone says he looks forward to leading the implementation of the strategic plan designed to make Scenic America a more effective, viable and visible organization.

"I am honored by the opportunity to lead Scenic America," said Falzone. "At age 14 I joined my first civic organization, local conservation, and open space protection group. In my career and in my life I have worked to protect and improve the visual environment, and I look forward to leading Scenic America to even greater achievements and success."

Since becoming president, Falzone has led Scenic America to a series of victories, most notably the passage of the Reviving America's Scenic Byways Act, which was signed into law by the president in September 2019 and restarted the nomination process for the National Scenic Byways Program.

Scenic America is the only national nonprofit that helps citizens safeguard the scenic qualities of America's roadways, countryside and communities. Taking the Long View was written by the Board of Directors and staff of Scenic America with help from allies and partners in the scenic conservation movement. It was inspired by Scenic America's efforts to recognize the 50th anniversaries of the White House Conference on Natural Beauty and the Highway Beautification Act and honor the legacies of scenic visionaries like President and Lady Bird Johnson and Laurance S. Rockefeller. .

She currently works with scenic byways and destinations that are pivoting to take advantage of the current climate of nonstop change.

Kathleen Murphy

Executive Director
Creede/Mineral County Chamber of Commerce

Kathleen relocated to Colorado from Virginia in 2006. She served as an AmeriaCorps/VISTA on the Western Hardrock Watershed Team in Creede from 2008-2011. Under Kathleen's leadership, as President, the Silver Thread was successful in becoming an American Byway. Kathleen and her partner, Will, are raising their three-year-old, Townes, in Creede. As a family they enjoy drives along the Silver Thread, especially during the fall.

Barbara J. Bowman

CEO, Bowman and Associates, LLC

Barbara J. Bowman retired from Visit Grand Junction after 27½ years and now is consulting in Destination Marketing, Management and Tourism. Barb graduated from the University of Colorado with a B.S. in Recreation and a minor in English. She then lived and worked in Germany for eight years, while also traveling extensively in Europe and Africa. Barb has served on the board of the National Tour Association, the Colorado Tourism Board, Tour Colorado and the Colorado Society of Association Executives. She recently worked as the Interim Executive Director for Visit Durango, is a contractor for the Colorado Tourism Office and a member of the CTO International Promotions Committee. Her other professional activities and honors include receiving the 2008 Volunteer of the Year for the National Tour Association, 2008 Supplier of the Year from Colorado Meetings and Events Magazine, Individual Contribution Tourism Award for Colorado in 2000, the Rotary Service Above Self Award in 2018, the Colorado Tourism Office Chairman's Award in 2019. Barb and her husband travel and camp extensively in their free time.

Kat Papenbrock

OEDIT

Kat is the Rural Opportunity Representative for the Western Slope of Colorado for the Office of Economic Development and International Trade. The Rural Opportunity Representatives represent OEDIT and are responsible for overseeing and executing multiple projects to advance Colorado's rural communities. This work includes managing the Rural Technical Assistance Program (RTAP), coordinating rural strategy for their respective regions, working with other OEDIT offices including the Small Business Development Center, Minority Business Office and the Employee Ownership Network and representing OEDIT on Manufacturer's Edge. Prior to joining OEDIT in late 2019, Papenbrock served as the Executive Director for the Ouray Tourism Office. During her tenure, she and her team restructured Ouray's destination marketing, management and development program and successfully participated in several regional destination marketing and economic development collaborations. She also served on the Board and Comprehensive Economic Development Strategy Committee for Region 10 League for Economic Assistance and Planning, the Ouray Community Economic Development Committee and was vice-chair of the Colorado Association of Destination Marketing Organizations. Prior to working with the OTO, she owned and operated a locally-sourced restaurant in Ouray. Papenbrock has a graduate degree in Art History and Museum Studies. She is a passionate advocate for the quality of life, recreational opportunities, incredible food and entrepreneurial spirit of Colorado's Western Slope.

Deana Sheriff

West End Economic Development Corporation

Deana Sheriff is the Executive Director for West End Economic Development Corporation, working under contract through Region 10 League for Economic Assistance, but recently named WEEDC's first employee. Since April 2017, Deana has been working to mitigate the economic effects of both a mine closure and power plant closure. Deana's task is to help the region diversify the economy, and not only survive the impact of the closures and loss of high-paying jobs, but to come out the other side a stronger and more resilient community.

Deana has worked in economic development for over 25 years, working in both metropolitan and rural settings. Deana's passion for rural communities has helped to craft unique solutions that work for isolated regions. She particularly enjoys helping small businesses grow and prosper.

Deana received her Certification in Economic Development (CEcD) in 2016. She loves to travel, and considers herself a Lifelong Learner. She's found that she likes the West End so much, she has permanently relocated to the region, and intends to call this her home long into the future.

Adam Beh

Executive Director for Central Colorado Conservancy

Adam serves as the Executive Director for Central Colorado Conservancy (CCC) in Salida, CO. He has over 23 years of experience leading collaborative conservation and rural development projects in the Rocky Mountain West and abroad (Kenya, Tanzania, South Sudan, Niger, Ghana). Adam provides oversight on all aspects of conservation and development investments in the Arkansas Headwaters region, which currently includes land protection, restoration and natural resource enhancements along both the Collegiate Peaks and Top of the Rockies Scenic Byways. Adam holds a PhD in Human Dimensions of Natural Resources from Colorado State University (2011).

As the Youth & Family Services Consultant at the Colorado State Library, Beth provides consulting and training on child development, library programming and activities, outreach services, and community collaborations. She supports children, teens and families by coordinating statewide initiatives for early literacy, summer learning, outdoor experiences, and other campaigns.

Deirdre Moynihan

Deirdre Moynihan has been designing and directing Bike Tours and events for over 25 years now. She has directed bike tours in Europe, New England, California and beautiful Colorado. In addition to bike tours, Deirdre has created unique cyclocross races in the Metro Denver area providing the only adaptive cyclocross course in the United States and has directed numerous Junior Cycling Camps and programs through Tri Velo Series. Her love to explore new communities and routes makes her work very enjoyable! Deirdre also leads the Colorado Bike Event Coalition (CBEC) that has been working diligently together this year to ensure there are COVID-safe bike events throughout Colorado. When not organizing bike events, Deirdre is stewarding her four Ethiopian godsons; hanging with Dag the Dog and Bridie the Cat; funky art or gardening. She has recently taken up welding.

Linda A Towle

Linda retired in 2007 as the Chief of Research & Resource Management at Mesa Verde National Park. She served as an archeologist for the National Park Service for 25 years, the last 15 of which were at Mesa Verde. At Mesa Verde, Linda managed the Archeological Site Conservation Program, the Curatorial program, the Natural Resource Program, compliance with Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act, and served as a member of the park's Senior Management Team.

Since her retirement, Linda has volunteered as a Historic Preservation Consultant.

She served as Chairman of the Cortez Historic Preservation Board from 2008-2016. During this time, she wrote the nomination for the City to become a Certified Local Government (CLG) which occurred in 2010. She has served as the Vice Chairman of the Board from 2017 to the present. Achieving CLG status allowed the City of Cortez to apply for grants which did not require matching funds. Linda has written 8 CLG grant applications which have funded inventories of historic properties within the Original Townsite of Cortez. As a result, 50 additional properties have been listed on the City of Cortez Register of Historic Sites.

Linda also spearheaded the effort to save the McElmo Creek Flume, which was listed as a CO Endangered Place in 2011 and on the National Register of Historic Places in 2012. Linda has written numerous grants to preserve and interpret the Flume, including to the CO State Historical Fund, the National Scenic Byways Program, and the Ballantine Family Fund. She raised the required matching funds through grants and presentations to local organizations including the SW Basin Roundtable, the Southwestern Water Conservation District, private donors and local businesses.

Concurrently, a new interpretive stop on the Trail of the Ancients National Scenic Byway (Highway 160) was created at the Flume to tell the story of the history of water and irrigation in the Montezuma Valley. The new stop was dedicated in 2016, and the Flume was declared SAVED in 2018!

Linda has a BA in Economics from Tufts University and an MA in Anthropology/Archaeology from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

James Dietrich

James was raised on a farm located east of Greeley, Colorado. He has a degree in Landscape Architecture from the Colorado State University Department of Natural Resources.

James arrived in Southwest Colorado in 1989 as an intern for the Office of Community Services at Ft. Lewis College. He returned every summer until graduation in 1991. From 1991 -2012 James continued his work with Ft. Lewis College. The office of Community Services provided technical assistance to rural communities by building local capacity. Projects included downtown streetscape improvements, recreational infrastructure improvements, and historic preservation. James was involved with some of the preliminary inventory and analysis of the San Juan Skyway.

In 2012 James joined the Montezuma County Natural Resources Department. In this role, James focuses on maintaining rural economic diversity through recreational tourism and expanding rural recreational infrastructure. Montezuma County also emphasizes access to natural resources such as forestry, grazing, and fluid minerals within the context of Productive Harmony.

James is also an avid recreationalist and enjoys as much as two young grandchildren will allow, including everything from river rafting and bicycling to motorcycle riding.

Kelly Ortiz

US Forest Service

Kelly works with Scenic Byways in her region including Los Caminos Antiguos Scenic and Historic Byway and Silver Thread National Scenic and Historic Byway. She is an expert Forest Landscape Architect that has worked with interpretation and recreation planning. Kelly currently works out of the Rio Grande National Forest in Lajara, Colorado.

Diego Lopez joined Northern Colorado Clean Cities (NCCC) as a Co-Coordinator in August 2018. Lopez now serves as the executive director for Northern Colorado Clean Cities. He is responsible for strategic planning, stakeholder services, education and outreach, public relations, and infrastructure development programs. Lopez has 7 years of experience in the energy and transportation industry and completed a bachelor's degree focused in environmental sciences and geography with a minor in physics from the University of Colorado Denver. With experience as an energy and transportation advisor with a demonstrated history of working with consumers, businesses, municipalities, utilities, and fleets, Lopez is available to assist coalition stakeholders with project development, technical workshops, locating funding opportunities, and supporting funding proposals.

Stefan Johnson

Electric Vehicle-Friendly Byways

Stefan Johnson is CLEER's Transportation Program Manager and a ReCharge Coach for the Colorado Energy Office. Stefan works with local governments, school districts, businesses, utilities, and car-dealerships on EV adoption and infrastructure deployment across Colorado. Stefan is working with CDOT, the Colorado Tourism Office, the Colorado Energy Office, to electrify the state's Scenic Byways and has helped secure grant funding for EV Charging Stations on the Alpine Loop, Top of the Rockies, and West Elk Loop Byways. Before joining CLEER, Stefan served as an Americorps VISTA with Solar Energy International in Paonia, CO. When he's out of the office, Stefan enjoys taking his electric vehicle to find new trailheads and chargers on the Western Slope. Stefan received a Bachelor's Degree in Environmental Policy from Occidental College in Los Angeles.

Nancy B. Kramer

Program Coordinator, Northwest Colorado Cultural Heritage
President, 10th Mt. Division Foundation

Nancy moved to Steamboat Springs from Portland Oregon in 1974 and served as supervisor of the Surgical/Operating Department at Routt Memorial Hospital (RMH) for four years. She then worked as a school and public health nurse for the NW Colorado VNA, before starting the In-Season Bakery Café in 1982. After selling the business in 1989, she returned to RMH to continue her career in surgical nursing and healthcare administration until retiring in 1993 to pursue a new career in the nonprofit sector as Executive Director of the Steamboat Springs Arts Council (SSAC) as Executive Director from 1993 to 2006. She led the way for the arts to flourish in the small rural resort community through managing a $500,000 capacity building grant from the National Endowment for the Arts. As well, she successfully acquired two State Historical Fund grants that allowed for the city and SSAC to make critical renovations to the Historic 1908 Steamboat Depot. Her current nonprofit leadership role is President and Program Coordinator for Northwest Colorado Cultural Heritage Program. At present, she is working with the Colorado Tourism Office's Destination Development team to further advance NW Colorado's cultural heritage brand and travel experiences with her stakeholder group.

Nancy has served on the 10th Mt. Division Foundation since 2015, contributing her time and talent in honor of her father who served as a medic in the WWII Division. She was elected President of the Foundation Board in 2019. The 10th Mt. Division Foundation is currently engaged in updating interpretive signage on the Top of the Rockies Scenic Byway near the entrance of Camp Hale, the Historic WWII training site of the 10th Mountain Division.

Walter T. Boulden, PhD

Walt was born and raised in Wyoming and has always had a deep love for the Rocky Mountains, the outdoors, and hiking. He completed his first fifty-mile hike in the Bighorn Mountains Cloud Peak Wilderness area at the age of 12.

Area of expertise: Community and Organizational Development, Program Evaluation, Social Justice, Cultural Competency, and Grant Writing.

Walt received his BS and BSW from the University of Wyoming, Laramie WY; his MSW from the University of Denver, Denver, CO; and his Ph.D. in Social Work from the Union Institute and University, Cincinnati, OH. He has over 20 years' experience teaching community development, program evaluation, social justice, and research in both BSW and MSW programs in Wyoming and Missouri.

In 2014, Walt retired from his position as Executive Director of the Resource Development Institute, and adjunct Professor at the University of Missouri Kansas City, and relocated to Trinidad, CO. He and his partner opened "Fumio Sawa Fine Art" on Main Street in Trinidad, and Walt became Executive Director of the South Central Council of Governments in 2015.

Walt is committed to continuous involvement in organizational systems, communities, and planning; with the intent of helping people and communities reach their fullest potential, and alleviate the obstacles that prevent them from accessing the opportunities necessary to do so.

Colorado Scenic and Historic Byways Photo Exhibit

NOTES
 This exhibit showcases Colorado's 26 Scenic and Historic Byways with breathtaking color photography of unique Colorado locations - a Colorado's Scenic Byways video compilation and the stories of their collective past. These photos capture beautifully the scenery experienced by travelers along these historic Colorado roadways. They represent a small portion of the wide diversity offered in the state, which has the most designated byways in the nation. Come experience for yourself the true of our out-of-land state!

2015
Hokkaido Scenic Byway Conference - Photos were exhibited at the Sapporo Airport when our delegates traveled there to attend the Hokkaido Byway Resource Center 10th Anniversary Conference in Sapporo. Our representatives brought back the exhibit idea and presented it to the Colorado Scenic and Historic Byways Commission on January 27, 2017.

2018
Denver International Airport (DEN) was proud to show off Colorado's 26 Scenic and Historic Byways in an art exhibit featuring breathtaking color photography of several unique, un-polluted non-Colorado locations. The exhibit was located at the "Literature Gallery" past the A-security checkpoint, May through October 2018.

2019
Colorado Creative Industries (CCI) was proud to show off Colorado's 26 Scenic and Historic Byways in the newest art exhibit featuring breathtaking color photography of several unique, majestic and rare Colorado locations. The photos were displayed on the main floor of the Colorado State Capitol for legislators, decision-makers, students, and visitors, February 4 through the end of April 2019.

2019
 The History Colorado Center showcased 52 photos of the 26 Colorado Scenic and Historic Byways. The Commission hosted the Colorado Byways 20th Anniversary & Photo Submission Reception on Thursday, June 27, 2019. The Executive Director of the Colorado Department of Transportation and the History Colorado Executive Director provided opening remarks for this special occasion attended by byway members, Colorado Byways Commissioners, photographers and media to mingle and view this exhibit.

2020
Future Plans - The photo exhibit is tentatively scheduled to move to another venue or airport in 2020.

Let's Ch

The Ride of the Ancients was started by the Trail of the Ancients Scenic Byway and Southwest Colorado Canyons Alliance. Trail of the Ancients Scenic Byway serves as a gateway to the Ancestral Puebloan and heritage destinations throughout Southwest Colorado, with a mission to instill appreciation for the cultural continuum represented here. Uninterrupted from ancient times to contemporary society, our enchanted landscapes and enduring people still practice traditional ways that can offer the visitor valuable insight and perspective. Trail of the Ancients aspires to be a pathway for learning from the past and investing those lessons in the future, promoting understanding of this exceptional region and its place in the larger world. Southwest Colorado Canyons Alliance collaborates with Bureau of Land Management to engage the public through education, outreach, and stewardship for the use and enjoyment of the natural and cultural landscape of Canyons of the Ancients National Monument and nearby public lands.

Bicentennial Santa Fe Trail Symposium

The Santa Fe Trail Bicentennial is a commemoration of a living part of the American Experience. The Trail remains crucial to American history in all its many forms: connecting people in commerce, conflict, and culture. The Bicentennial creates opportunities for education, awareness, and exploration of the countless facets of the American Experience past, present, and future.

The keystone event of the 200-year celebration will take place in La Junta, September 23 – 26, 2021. Living history, tours and speakers will tell the story of the trail. For more information and to register click on www.2021sfts.com. The celebration continues, in Trinidad, at the commemorative event on September 27 – October 3, 2021.

THE McELMO CREEK FLUME IS SAVED!

The McElmo Creek Flume has been "Saved," but why is this important and how did it happen?

History of the Flume: The McElmo Creek Flume is the ONLY SURVIVING flume of the original 104 flumes on the Montezuma Valley Irrigation system that was constructed in the 1890s. This irrigation system diverted water from the Dolores River via a mile long tunnel, which brought water to the Montezuma Valley in southwest Colorado. This allowed large-scale farming and ranching to develop, and also created the town site of Cortez. James W. Hanna, the original developer of this irrigation project, laid out the town of Cortez as housing for his workers. The McElmo Creek Flume, constructed ca. 1892, was Flume No. 6 on the Highline Lateral, and delivered water to the Ute Mountain Ute Tribe's reservoir north of Towaoc.

The McElmo Creek Flume remained operational until 1992, when McPhee Reservoir and its laterals replaced the original irrigation system. The Flume remained in good shape until a heavy rain in August, 2006, sent debris from the open ditch into the wooden trough and damaged the northern end. Heavy winds in the winter of 2011 caused the southern end to deteriorate.

Saving the Flume: In 2010, the Cortez Historic Preservation Board decided to nominate the Flume to Colorado Preservation Inc.'s Endangered Places List, and John Porter, our local "water buffalo," wrote the nomination. The Flume was listed as an Endangered Place in 2011, and the preservation effort began.

Since the Flume was no longer in use, its ownership reverted to the land owner, which is Montezuma County. The northern end of the Flume is on CDOT property. In 2012, the Flume was listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Also in 2012, Montezuma County applied for and received the first of 4 Colorado State Historical Fund (SHF) grants to conduct a condition assessment of the wooden trough and the foundation of the Flume. The contract for this work was awarded to Anthony & Associates for the wood assessment, Porter & Associates for the foundation assessment, and the Center of Historic Preservation Research at the University of CO Denver for a LIDAR scan of the entire structure. This assessment recommended further study of the condition of the foundation.

In 2013, the County received a second SHF grant to assess the condition of the steel and concrete in the Flume's foundation. This grant was awarded to Anthony & Associates, Conservation Associates, and Atkinson-Nowland & Associates, who recommended that repairs be made to the concrete piers and steel girders, and prepared engineering drawings. A third SHF grant, awarded in 2014, provided funds to stabilize the southern piers and complete the other foundation work. This contract was awarded to Triad Western Contractors, and was completed in the winter of 2016.

CARBONDALE

Did you know that The Thompson House is one of the few historic house museums in the country featuring contents authentic to its original pioneer ranching family?

Myron Thompson, who lived among the Ute Indians built the house in 1885 for his daughter Hattie and her husband Oscar Holland.

The house, then known as the Holland House, was the hub of the Pleasant View Ranch, one of the largest ranches in the Crystal River Valley and the center of social activity in Carbondale. Social gatherings often included prominent individuals, including John C. Osgood, the wealthy coal baron and founder of the village of Redstone.

After Oscar's death in 1920, Hattie continued the ranching operation and in later years traveled around the world, returning from her trips with unusual items and elegant furnishings that are on display in the house.

When in Carbondale, don't miss the chance to explore this cultural heritage treasure, which is open to the public during the summer for guided tours!

Did you know that every spring and fall cowboys still drive their herds right through the center of town?

Cattle ranching is an integral part of Carbondale's history. The wide open valley and fertile lands were ideal for raising cattle, establishing the foundation for a vital local economy.

Today the town is still surrounded by ranches and the cowboy tradition is alive and well. Every Thursday, from June through August the Wild West Rodeo takes place at the Gus Darrin Arena. Cowboys and cowgirls come from far and wide to compete in team roping, barrel racing, and bull riding. Even the local youngsters get involved with the calf scramble and mutton bustin'. This time honored western tradition and award winning event is fun for the whole family.

Did you know that Carbondale was once the potato capital of the United States?

Carbondale's climate and fertile soil yielded an abundant supply of potatoes, a profitable cash crop for local farmers from the late 1880s to the 1940s. During both World Wars, tons of potatoes were shipped out to feed American soldiers and the prized red McClure Potato developed in Carbondale, was sent East to upscale restaurants such as Delmonico's in New York City. Every fall the town celebrates Potato Day in Sopris Park with a community parade and pit-barbecue.

Today, Carbondale is known for its commitment to the arts, acclaimed three-day Mountain Fair in July, a year round open air Art Around Town sculpture collection, the Performing Arts Center, and first class theatrical productions performed by Carbondale's award-winning Thunder River Theatre Company. In 2012 Carbondale received the prized Governor's Arts Award.

Did you know Carbondale is located at the confluence of two rivers, and crowned by the majestic 12,953 foot Mt. Sopris?

In addition to a rich cultural heritage, Carbondale offers spectacular scenery and outstanding outdoor recreational opportunities, including hiking, biking, fly fishing, hunting, rafting, kayaking, and cross country skiing, as well as easy access to miles of bike and pedestrian trails and pathways.
